About Personality Profiling

Low (L)
Moderately Low (ML)
Moderately High (MH)
High (H)

After a lot of research, experts have come up with five broad dimensions that can describe a human personality. They can be coded as OCEAN - Openness to Experiences, Conscientiousness, Extraversion, Agreeableness and Neuroticism; so vast that every being can be unique. This Personality Profiling based on OCEAN is designed to provide you with valuable insight into your character, aptitudes, and disposition.

Your Personality Profile Scores of Traits measured in this Assessment

Openness To Experiences

Openness reflects the manners in which you seek out new experiences. An intellectual is a person who primarily uses intelligence in either professional or at individual capacity. The distinctive quality of the intellectual person is that the mental skills, which he or she demonstrates, are not simply intelligent, but even more. They focus on thinking about the abstract, philosophical and esoteric aspects of human inquiry and the value of their thinking. This trait reflects open-mindedness and is associated with broad-mindedness, unconventionality, artistic inclination, curiosity, intuition and imagination. This trait also defines what level of IQ you possess. High openness scorers have good curiosity levels and are open to new thoughts.

You focus your thoughts too much on abstract, philosophical and esoteric aspects of human inquiry. You don't deter from trying out unconventional methods of accomplishing tasks. You are highly intuitive and imaginative and create patterns to draw conclusions. For you, new and change is the way of life.

Conscientiousness

H

Conscientiousness reflects how careful and orderly an individual is. It is related to the way in which people control, regulate, and direct their impulses. Will Power, Diligence and Dependability are major factors contributing to Conscientiousness. People with high Conscientiousness scores are seen to be more professionally successful and possess have high levels of self-control i.e. good at resisting impulses. This trait reflects if you prefer neat, organized homes and will live well-planned lives.

While you are generally fairly responsible and reliable, people might give a pass when it comes to counting on you. At times you lose your cool and get stressed and anxious. You have a natural tendency towards being organized, rule-abiding and is predictive of success in a variety of areas.

Extraversion

H

Extraversion reflects how much you are oriented towards things outside yourself and derive energy and satisfaction from interacting with other people. The trait of extraversion-introversion is a central dimension of human personality theories and is typically viewed as a single continuum. Extraversion tends to be manifested in outgoing, talkative, energetic behavior, whereas introversion is manifested in more reserved and solitary behavior. This trait defines whether you are Friendly, Adventurous, Enthusiastic and Ambitious or not.

You are not anti-social but tend to avoid social gatherings or interactions with too many people, as it drains out you totally. When it comes to thinking and making any important decisions, you take a deep dive into yourself and allow no one to interfere the process. You keep your calm and like to maintain a low-key profile and take pride in your independence from social world.

Agreeableness

H

Agreeableness reflects how much you like and try to please others, rather how we tend to interact with others and come across to them. This reflects individual differences in general concern for social harmony. This trait has direct correlation with quality of one's relationship with others. People who are Kind, Sensitive, Cooperative and Compassionate tend to have high Agreeableness scores.

You do not come across as agreeable in first place. People generally don't find you approachable and forgiving, but this is not always the case. While you do not like to interact easily a lot, if you are in a good mood to interact with others, you may sometimes come across as warm and considerate.

Neuroticism

Neuroticism is a fundamental personality trait in the study of psychology characterized by anxiety, moodiness, worry, envy, and jealousy. Neuroticism is the tendency to experience negative emotions and thoughts including fear. Neuroticism is a risk factor for the "internalizing" mental disorders such as phobia, depression, panic disorder, and other anxiety disorders, all of which are traditionally called neuroses.

You exhibit fairly stable emotions, although this is not always the case. At times, this inconsistency may interfere with your ability to handle the stresses inherent in everyday life, but most of the time, you can handle them quite well. Self-control and security help you to maintain fairly good composure.
